Anybody's Nose

Is not everybody's nose? A certain individual with a certain nose and a certain glass, may run, jump, ride, sneeze, sleep, laugh—still his glasses cling as though part of his physiognomy; while another with the same identical glass cannot move without them slipping. In eye glass fitting the many different noses require as great a variety of guards, as well as a fund of practical ophthalmological knowledge. I have both. Pleased to convince you.

Texas may be a wild and woolly state, but there are redeeming features about Texas. A man down there the other day secured an injunction against another man from visiting his wife, and the supreme court held the injunction good. There is no need of such a law in this vicinity, but people need houses and farmsteads, and they go to Willis Cadwell to buy or sell.

Captain Wilson, of company M, accompanied by his wife, passed through the city Tuesday morning on his way east. He did not come east with the boys from California, but instead went up to Oregon and Washington with a view of locating. The Street fair at Lincoln, Sept. 18th to 23rd, promises to be a big thing. It is free to every body. The attractions will equal, in many respects, a state fair exhibit. It is the first exhibition of the kind ever attempted in the state and it will be worth going from Broken Bow to Lincoln to see.

J. C. Moore threshed his sod wheat last week. It yielded twelve bushels to the acre. It had been hailed and the insurance company allowed him four bushels to the acre as damage, which makes a pretty good yield for an off year. He reports his corn still green and in fine shape.

A. W. Drake has rented the room now occupied by Douglas & Birney on the west side of the public square. An addition is being built onto it and it will be ready to occupy by the first of September. A. W. DRAKE

C. B. Betts and family, who have been visiting on the Pacific coast for the past two months and a half, returned the latter part of last week. He reports having had a nice visit, and killed a bear and one deer while gone. He says there are plenty of fruit and fish there, but he could see no other inducement for a Nebraskan to leave Custer county and locate there. Everything is raised by irrigation and no grass grows there worth mentioning and it takes about fifteen acres to pasture one cow.

The Lincoln Street Fair.

Spend the week beginning September 18th, at Lincoln, if you want to see the biggest thing in the way of street fairs ever held in the west. Everything is free—the agricultural exhibit, the cattle, hog and horse exhibits, the band concerts, the parades, theatrical performances, balloon ascensions and fireworks. For six solid days you can fairly revel in fun. You can see hundreds of odd and interesting things—every one of them with out a cent of cost. Extraordinarily low rates via the Burlington route, Sept. 18, 19, 20, and 21. See the local ticket agent.

Ringling Bros. show, Monday, proved a drawing card for Broken Bow. When they were here in '92 they attracted the largest crowd that had ever congregated in the city. It was not thought they would be able to draw as large a crowd this time, as it is a very busy time with the farmers. But in that we were mistaken. The crowd was not only as large but larger than the one seven years ago. The managers informed us that in the afternoon there were eleven thousand people in the large pavilion. When we asked if they did not have more than that in '92 they answered that the pavilion was not as large, by one third, in '92 as it is now, and the crowd Monday could not have been crowded into it. It was a big show and every one who attended the afternoon exhibition were well pleased. It was much larger than seven years ago. It took twenty more cars to carry them, there being quite an increase in the number animals. The managers of the show were highly pleased with the reception given them here by Custer county people, and assured us that it would not be as long before they come again as it has been since they were last here.

MARRIED.

WOODS—JACKSON—Monday, September 11th, 1899, at the Baptist parsonage of this city, Jesse Woods and Miss May Jackson, of Mason City, Rev. J. W. Megan officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson, near Mason City, who were among the early settlers of that locality, and are prosperous and highly respected people. She is an exemplary young lady, of culture, in both the literary and the culinary art, and will prove a very valuable helpmeet. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Woods, of that vicinity, who are numbered among the prosperous and highly respected people of that locality. We are not personally acquainted with the groom, but by the good judgment he has exercised in selecting a wife, we feel assured that if he continues to exercise as good judgment in the future, in matters relating to building up a home and in business matters, he will make for his bride a happy home, and will prosper. The Republican extends congratulations, with the hope that prosperity and happiness may be their lot.

The Broken Bow schools opened last week, with a full corps of efficient teachers. We have been unable to learn the enrollment, but understand that it is quite large, and that quite a number are attending from outside districts, under the free attendance law. The teachers are: Principal, J. E. Adamson. South side—J. R. Teagarden, Millie Warrington, Jessie Harwood, Mary Beal, Nan Alexander. North Side—Mrs. Thompson, Sadie Whitehead, Miss Tucker, Miss Downey. The high school has been moved back to the south side building. Leslie and Earnest McWilliams are janitors.

Boy Killed by Lightning.

Moulton Hammond, a boy about twelve years old was killed, by lightning last Thursday morning. He and his younger sister were on their way to school. The girl was near her brother at the time the fatal bolt struck him and had just given him her dinner pail to carry, while she removed the sand burrs from her stockings. She was in a stooped position, removing the burrs when her brother, but few feet, in front was killed. Being but slightly stunned by the shock, on discovering her brother was dead, she ran eighty rods distance to Johnson's and secured his assistance. The deceased was a nephew of Gale Hammond, with whom he and his sister were making their home, their father being dead. The boy was quite bright and his premature death was greatly regretted by all.

Finally Appreciated.

The people are becoming alive to the great merits of the "Greater American Exposition" at Omaha. The people of Omaha, Council Bluffs and other near by towns are constant and pleased visitors. Thousands of the people of surrounding states are now enjoying the exposition. The strange people from across the sea are all there, Filipinos 37 of them. The famous water buffalo. Aguinaldo's carriage. Twenty eight fine people from Hawaii. Champion swimmers. The royal double quartette. The best singers in our new possessions. A large company of native Cubans. The awful Garrote and the terrible executioner Valentine, who has killed more than 800 people on this very machine. No such an exposition will be given in the west in the next twenty years. See it while you can.

The musical convention held in this city last week by Bridges Bros. in the M. E. Church, was a very successful affair. They had a class of about sixty members which they taught the rudiments of music and vocal culture. The term closed Saturday with a concert. This was quite a success, and gave Messrs Bridges an opportunity to demonstrate to the public the efficiency of their work. The class sang a number of songs with excellent precision. Fully two thirds of the class had never studied music before, but had learned in the fifteen lessons given to read music readily, and answered promptly about two hundred questions on the fundamental principles of music. In addition to the exercises of the class Mr. and Mrs. Bridges rendered some very fine vocal and instrumental pieces using the guitar and mandolin. Mesdames Hadden and Hubbard sang a duet and Mrs. Hadden rendered a solo. The entertainment was first class in every respect.
